NoVirusThanks Drive Revealer Portable is an easy-to-use tool that shows you all the drive information about the drives included in your system. This tool displays serial numbers, volume name and serial number, capacity, free space, filesystem, bus type, drive description, device path, physical drive, label, vendor, and revision. Driver Talent Driver Talent is driver software designed to detect whether driver updates will be needed for your hardware. After installation, the program will automatically scan your computer and identify the latest firmware updates. Software, drivers, firmware files and other system data can be efficiently updated by checking for new drivers. Your computer will be much easier to use. Driver Talent was tested on a Windows 10 (English) operating system with a 4-GB memory. The program includes an option to work with USB serial numbers in addition to its built-in library. Software > Leads Software > Leads is a unique lead generator that offers you several ways to receive leads. The number of leads that you receive depends on your price plan. You can start a campaign for as low as

$6/sale. What is leads? Leads are single customer sales. A lead is a customer that has indicated a desire to receive a specific offer at a specific time. Why do I need leads? You need leads because you are a lead-generation expert with a successful company. Your goal is to build a highly profitable business. You need to get out the word that you are the best - that your company is designed for the best. The only way to do this is to get traffic to your site and get them to buy your product - that's what you do best! So how do you build a great business? You get out the word, get people to know about you and your services and products. The only way you can do that is to get people to know about you and your products. You do that by getting people to the lead generation stage! So, you need leads! How do you get leads? Let's talk about how you get leads. You get leads through: 1. Search Engines 2. Social Networks (Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn, etc.) 3. Pay Per Click 4. Referral Marketing 5. Offline Advertising 6. "Free" Marketing What is PPC? Pay Per Click Advertising (PPC) is the practice of paying an advertiser each time a visitor to a web page clicks

What's New in the NoVirusThanks Drive Revealer Portable?

NoVirusThanks Drive Revealer Portable is a free utility for Windows XP/Vista/7. It's a lightweight drive information tool that easily gives you device information about optical and other drives and saves it in html format. It works great on hardware that is otherwise undetectable. The most entertaining and informative app ever. I have never found an app that showed as much data about a drive as this one. Cannot recommend enough. -- Driveinfo ist a portable drive tool that gets hardware and software data about local (internal) and external drives. It has a simple layout that allows quick and easy access to all the features. You can specify the units of measurement, so you can view everything from megabytes to petabytes and everything in between. The data is displayed in a tabular and a graphics format. It has 2 modes of operation, a standard mode that lists all information about your drives and a more detailed mode that displays the information in a bar graph format. The drive information tool works fine and immediately displays all the available information for a drive, but it still does not include the details about your CD/DVD-ROM drives. It's a minor drawback, but still. There is no need to burn a disc or install the software package (2MB) to get drive info. If you want to get the data that you can only find in "real" disk drive software, you can download the Driveinfo-GUI (about 60kB) and use it as a stand alone package. The app works very fast and does not slow down any faster than simply browsing through the folders in Windows Explorer. You must have administrative rights to get access to the driver information. Once you have access, you can do one of two things: Open the web page in your browser and save the data: You can "Open-Save" the complete HTML file in a browser. The info about your hard disk drives is always included on the home page of driveinfo.htm. The following steps take you to the main page: -- This site (driveinfo.htm) has several other pages. You can navigate to them all by clicking "Other information" or "More information" in the top menu. On the homepage, the most important info about your internal drives are listed on the left. To access them, click on the appropriate drive icon. You can also select the results you want by clicking on the desired drive icon
